"I am so excited to be a part of the world's first Halal Food Festival. With its live demonstration kitchen, cooking school, and other attractions, this event is not to be missed!"
Ajmal Mustaq, Scotland Chef of the Year 2011/2012

"The Halal Market in the UK is one of the fastest growing. The Halal Food Festival is an excellent opportunity to engage with 2nd and 3rd generation Muslims with real spending power!"
Paul Tempest, Said Business School, University of Oxford - Author of Islamic Branding & Marketing

"Cooking halal Spanish tapas at the Halal Food Festival? Sounds great to me, I'll be there!"
Ben Teli, Executive Chef of Salt Yard Group

"Food festivals are about promoting good quality food and ingredients, and halal food is always high quality. The Halal Food Festival will encourage halal-eaters to go out to eat more, including fine dining restaurants, as a lot of them do not realise how good it is to eat participating halal food."
