

The image below is a rough example of something I thought to be near alright from vistaprint.

-The image is not good in that we are builders, not painters or electricians so the hammer is of more significance and the other trades should be represented with less prominence or not at all.

- More use of colour – blue yellow but I am flexible if it fits my brief in other ways

- Font should be more modern

- Phone number not to be depicted

- Important - I don't like the fact that the houses depicted below are all the same because nothing we do is the same, it is always original!

