

A landscape painting featuring a range of mountains in the background with various peaks in shades of grey, white, and orange. In the middle ground, there's a body of water with soft, blended colors of blue, green, and yellow. The foreground is dominated by a cluster of trees with autumn leaves in shades of orange, red, and yellow. The overall style is impressionistic, with visible brushstrokes and a focus on light and color.

An Exhibition of the Art of

Steven Lewin

Saturday 13 September, 2014
11AM-4PM

Maison Visinand
Rue de Port 32
1820 Montreux
1st Floor Cultural Centre

Steven Lewin began painting 5 years ago in an attempt to overcome a lack of focus caused by his symptoms of Parkinson's disease. Having personally benefitted from the experience of creating artwork, he is now keen to use his creativity to help others with the condition.

An exhibition of Steven's work is to be held at Maison Visinand on Saturday 13 September, with all proceeds from the sale of his paintings to be given to the Lausanne Chapter of the Parkinson's Society.

We very much hope that you will be able to join us for this event.

RETURN ADDRESS • ANYWHERE • 000000 • 000000

Steven Lewin began painting 5 years ago in an attempt to overcome a lack of focus caused by his symptoms of Parkinson's disease. Having personally benefitted from the experience of creating artwork, he is now keen to use his creativity to help others with the condition.

An exhibition of Steven's work is to be held at Maison Visinand on Saturday 13 September, with all proceeds from the sale of his paintings to be given to the Lausanne Chapter of the Parkinson's Society.

We very much hope that you will be able to join us for this event.
